N. C. A. Sleeps While Combinations Are Worked Night After Night.

JACKIE CLARKE IS VICTIM

McFarland Quoted as Uttering Threats Which Seem to Have Been Carried Out.

The picture shows McFarland, the lanky Californian, starting Jackie Clarke, the Australian wonder. The picture was taken for the "News" while the racing season was at its heighth in this city. "Mac" and Clarke were friends, or at least there was an earnfriends, or at least there was an earning agreement between them. Clarke was under contract to ride at the Sattair Saucer exclusively, but Merariand rode wherever he pleased. When "Mac" was riding at the Sattair saucer there was never anything to it but Clarke and McParland, for that pair could bead any other two. But "Mac" and Jackie Lake for New York. The treatment being accorded Clarke by "Mac" now has the bigger mans of the east "hied" up, for combinations are not liked any more there than here and especially in discount is a combination which is made to "hand a rider something."

CLARKE, VICTIM.

CLARKE, VICTIM.

CLARKE, VICTIM.

Poor Jackie Clarke is being handed something. In the six-day race, "combinations were worked out beautifully, while the N. C. A. sleeps the sleep of the stothful, The Newark News is especially aggressive in the fight being waged by all lovers of clean sports for the abolition of combinations. Speaking of the finish or the six-day race held this month the News says:

"The same combination, which was in working order in the race all week, pervalled at the finish. The Clarke-Lawson team, which looked to be the best in the race, was in for a beating, and that is just what happened. Mac-Farland, since his break with Clarke, has declared that the little Australian will not win another race if he can prevent it, and, it looks as if he will pretty near make good his threat, as he has about every other rider on the track helping him. There is no doubt that these ensportsmanlike actions will have a detrimental effect on the game, which regained some of its lost popularity this summer, as it is only a matter of how long the public will stand for such palpable team work."

LOCAL TREATMENT. Several things, happoned here during the summer racing season which put teaming and combining in more or less disfavor and the Saltair management amounced that "teaming" would be prohibited. The edict was carried out in all sincerity and the latter end of the season saw some good races as a result. The Salt Palace did not issue orders against teaming at there were so many riders on this track that teaming did not seem to rob the contests of their interest. Teams were announced, however, so the fans knew who were going to work together.

MACIS STATEMENT

MAC'S STATEMENT.

MAC'S STATEMENT.

What makes the eastern sportsmen rather angry is the undenied report that MacFarland announced early in the New York season that "Clarke would never win a race if I can prevent it," and Mac's efforts to interfere with the plucks Australian are reported too evisent to escape detection even from the most new followers or the game.

What has given the bicycling situation international importance is the fact that champions of several nations are riding at Madison Square Garden. They are:

e: Frank L. Kramer, the American champion.

Crouch," Used by Modern Fighters, is Old as Hills.

Jimmy Britt, the California fighter, who was put permanently out of the fighting business by Joe Gans, after making a fortune in the sport through the peculiar method of handling fighters which are in vogue on the Pacific coast, is now in England. He went across the ocean with the Olympic athletes, and with the idea of picking up any soft money in the boxing line in King Edwards land. Britt has been doing a lot of boasting and self-advertising oven there, and some of tracting oven there, and some of tracting he has told must make the students of boxing in the old country have many a quiet laugh.

Among other things Britt has been telling the Brittsh sports that he is the inventor of the crouching position adopted by Tommy Burns in his matches with Gunner Moir and Jack Palmer. Jimmy must think that they believe his talk on that subject. Britt never invented anything in connection with boxing.

The large fully 60 years ago, in England, describes the position taken for a fight by a noted pugillst of that time handed year and it is almost exactly like that used by Britt, Nelson, Eddie Han-lon and many other Catifornia boxers. This book was written by a man who took lessons from Merdoza, and the submode Hauton and many other Catifornia boxers. This book was written by a man who took lessons from Merdoza, and the salmost exactly like that used by Britt, Nelson, Eddie Handera, and it is almost exactly like that used by Britt, Nelson, Eddie Handera, and it is almost exactly like that used by Britt, Nelson, Edde Handera, and it is almost exactly like that used by Britt, Nel coast, is now in England. The crouch was of English origin, with boxing.

The crouch was of English origin, and was in vogrowith a certain class of boxers in that country 75 years ago, or before Britt's father was born. The crouch was used to avoid blows to the stomach by bending over and pulling the stomach in out of the way. There are lots of plictures of old-time fighters who used this position, and which prove that it was very familiar in those days. Articles were written on it, and it was compared with the position with the left foot well in front, body crect and left arm extended.

The latter proved so much better a position, both for oftensive and defensive boxing, that it was generally adopted, and men who stuck to the crouch style were looked on as "dups," and soon the crouch position was abandoned altogether and if was lost sight of until it was brought out by California boxers a few years ago. In contests between the best exponents of the crouch and those who stand upstraight, the latter have won many more fights than the rormer, and there is little chance of the crouch ever becoming generally used by fighters.

A little book on boxing, published blow, which, especially if it was a straight punch, was bound to do the work.

The ease with which Gans could hit Nelson or Britt showed that these latter boxers have not improved the defensive tactics of the old-time crowd in the least. With the style of boxing Mace, Baldwin, Heenan, Goss, Billý Edwards, Arthur Chambers, Johnny Clark, Billy McLean and other noted boxers of the old school used, and which is used by all the leading eastern fighters, a man can hit his opponent with either hand and yet expose himself very little, as he still has his other hand for a guard or defense.

When this style is brought close to perfection, as it was by men like young Griffo, it was a common thing for such men to keep sticking their left hands repeatedly to the face or body of an opponent and guarding himself with his right so well as to escape being hit in return. Another great objection to the crouch as practised by western boxers who use it is the fact that it renders a man nearly incapable of hitting a quick straight blow, and compels him to confine himself pretty much to the swinging punches, which, in the long run, are inferior to straight blows for effective work.

Heavy and Middle Weights May Get Together in Near Future.

New York, Sept. 28.—By defeating Philadelphia today, New York retained the lead in the pennant race. A batting rally in the ninth inning gave the locals a clean-cut victory. 7 to 6, but it was a heart-breaking effort at a crucial moment. The visitors tied the score and rar ahead of New York in the seventh inning, and things began to look bad for New York. In the ninth inning, however, New York. In the ninthinning, however, Shean fell in trying to get Bresnahan's pop fly and Bresnahan was safe. Donlin then smashed out a three-bagger, scoring the catcher. Barry ran for Donlin, who had bruised his leg. Seymour, who followed, sent the ball pitched into deep center, bringing Barry in with the winning run. The teams will play a double-header fomorrow. Two battles said to have been all signed for are those between Billy Papke and Hugo Kelly and another between colored, and Tommy Burns. The first named won the middleweight championship of the world by deweight championship of the world by defeating Stanley Ketchell and the last lays claim to the heavyweight utle of the world. Johnson, the dinge, has been following Burns around for many, many months and through many climes in order to get the big Canadian-American in the ring, but Burns went on ignoring the dinge in his daily routine of whipping "champs" of other countries. "Ill ight Johnson or anyone when the financial end is put up right," said Burns.
America made offers, London offered a
...oe of $10,000, and assured a big house for the Burns-Johnson mill, but Burns laughed. Now the story comes that the fight will be held in Sydney, New South Wales, during December. A purse of $50,000 is said to have ben guaranteed, winner to take 30,000 and loser $2,000. Burns has made good showings in all recent mills and Johnson is known to be a glant brulser of ability. The bout ought to be a hammer-and-tongs affair from the start to a knockout conclusion.

The Papke-Kelly mill is slated for Milwauke, Oct. 15. These two men have challenged back and forth without coming to an understanding for so long that the fight followers despaired of ever seeing them together. Kelly is an Italian and his Italian manager, Sllvy Ferretti had to hang up $5,000 for the privilege of getting Hugo into the squared circle with the new middleweight beltholder. Both men are to weigh 138 three hours before the men enter the ring. But the match is not certain even yet for the managers of the Milwaukee Boxing club—Harlan Zea and Al, Bright—are provoked with what Ferretti did to get a whack at Papke for his man. The managers do not like the idea of Papke getting the first $5,000 taken in at the gates. The managers of the club want a guarantee of $5,000. If managers of the club want a guarantee of $5,000.
